Dear [REDACTED]

This note is to confirm that Cummins would have no objections to this unit being used in conjunction with the installation of Cummins engines. It should be noted however that Cummins cannot be held responsible for enhanced performance claims made by the component supplier. With regard to warranty, our position is that if failure can be shown to have been caused as a direct result of fitting of a third party component then warranty may be withheld.

Trusting this clarifies our position on the usage of your products.

Yours sincerely
